Athens, 18 February 2020

Meeting of Ms. Athina Korovesi, Head of the Focal Point for Southern & Western Greece of the Anna Lindh Foundation Greek Network, with Ms. Sophie Giannakis-Kagadis, Executive Director of the Ionion Center for the Arts and Culture

On Thursday 31 January 2020, Ms. Athina Korovesi, ICBSS Communications and Public Relations Manager and Head of the Focal Point for Southern & Western Greece of the Anna Lindh Foundation Greek Network, had a meeting with Ms. Sophie Giannakis-Kagadis, Executive Director of the Ionion Center for the Arts and Culture, at the ICBSS Hq, in Athens, in the framework of the collaboration of both member organizations within the Anna Lindh Foundation.
Representing the International Centre for Black Sea Studies (ICBSS) as the elected “Focal Point for Southern & Western Greece of the Anna Lindh Foundation Greek Network”, Ms. Korovesi informed Ms. Giannakis-Kagadis about the actions taken by the Head, Coordinator and Co-Head of the Greek National Network of the Euro-Mediterranean Anna Lindh Foundation during the period after the elections of the three Focal Points and Heads of the Network, held on September 2019.

Given the fact that the Ionion Center for the Arts and Culture operates in a global environment for the understanding and advancement of the European, Mediterranean and Global Civilization, in addition to the development of a high-level curricula in collaboration with prominent foreign universities and their professors, Ms. Giannakis-Kagadis highlighted the importance of the promotion of the Center’s actions through the Anna Lindh Foundation.

As the Executive Director of the Ionion Center for the Arts and Culture noted, the common audience of both Foundations, which are active in the wider Mediterranean region, is a reference point for the implementation of joint actions aiming to the promotion of the desired multicultural dialogue, with an emphasis in the fields of Higher Education, Arts and Research. Specifically, Ms. Giannakis-Kagadis proposed the launch of a series of activities in collaboration with the Anna Lindh Foundation Greek Network, that can be implemented at the Ionion Center for the Arts and Culture premises in Kefalonia, such as a painting exhibition with internationally recognized artists’ paintings, as the Ionion Center possesses both the know-how and the facilities for exhibiting and displaying the works of art.

Furthermore, Ms. Giannakis-Kagadis noted that she looks forward to the active contribution and involvement of the Anna Lindh Network, in order the joint actions to have a real footprint in the Civil Society under the prism of the expansion and stabilization of a healthy educational and cultural environment addressed to the citizens.

Agreeing on the above proposals, Ms. Korovesi emphasized the significance of highlighting the activities of the Ionion Center for the Arts and Culture to the direction of becoming well known to the public that wishes to participate at the offered high level academic programs. As she mentioned, the Anna Lindh Foundation Greek Network is a connecting link that could bring together the interested member organizations, as well as the individuals that follow its activities, with the Ionion Center for the Arts and Culture and hence the Western Greece, and in particular the island of Kefalonia.

At this point, Ms. Korovesi also referred to the need of the promotion of the local communities’ efforts while generating high-level international activities based on their own efforts. In addition, she considered the existence of organizations that can provide consultancy to self-taught artists while supporting their work, as well as guidance through their academic programs, necessary.

In this framework, both parties explored opportunities for cooperation between the International Centre for Black Sea Studies and the Ionion Center for the Arts and Culture, with a focus on the promotion of the cultural elements of the Mediterranean, the Balkans and the Black Sea countries and their artists.
About the ICBSS:

The International Centre for Black Sea Studies (ICBSS) was founded in 1998 as a non-profit organisation. It is a supervised organisation by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Hellenic Republic. Since its establishment it has fulfilled a dual function. On the one hand, it is an independent research and training institution focusing on the wider Black Sea region. On the other hand, it is a related body of the Organisation of the Black Sea Economic Cooperation (BSEC) and serves as its acknowledged think-tank. In the context of the above dual function, it undertakes a number of activities, such as events, publications, participation in research programs. The ICBSS pursues applied, policy-oriented research, promotes knowledge on the Black Sea region both within and outside its boundaries, and offers policy advice with the aim to foster multilateral cooperation among the BSEC member states as well as with their international partners. Mr. Georgios Mitrakos is the Director General of the ICBSS since July 2016.
